DEJAN DOJCINOSKI

Software Developer

PROFILE

I am a recently graduated software developer with BSc (Honours) Computing & IT. As a mature age graduate, I bring a many years of front-line customer experience to my work.

During my studies I was able to learn from many industry-experienced IT professional in areas such as Web development, Java coding, APP development, Agile delivery, Software Engineering, and the different aspects and applications of the software development lifecycle.

My degree explored many modern aspects of the industry, such as networking, though my particular areas of interest are with software development and delivery of both commercial products and customer business applications.

IT EXPERIENCE

As part of my final assessment in my education, I completed a project where I created a mobile application to bring the neighborhood closer together by acquire and offer assistance where e.g. databases, requirements gathering, and the Scrum methodology were used. This project used all aspects of the system development life cycle as well as project management.
